

What is Kasapulán?

Kasapulán, the Hiligaynon word for meeting or assembly, is HRDO's townhall and public information initiative. It serves as a mechanism to gather insights, perspectives, and feedback from the university's stakeholders to foster a sense of shared responsibility for the institution's growth and development. The program also promotes a culture of transparency and accountability, reinforcing the principles of good governance within the University.

Program Features

Engagement and Communication

Kasapulán provides a structured platform for dialogue, feedback, and exchange of ideas between administrative offices and their constituents.

User-Centric Approach

Insights of end-users of OVCA's online applications are valued by actively involving them in shaping the evolution of each platform.

Operational Efficiency

The program is designed to streamline processes, reduce administrative burdens, and elevate the overall experience of employees, resulting in a more efficient and responsive institution.

Testimonial

We have learned a lot from all phases of administrative work. And all of these are helpful, useful lalo na at we are still eyeing the continuation of FWA. Maraming salamat po, and more of these kinds of webinars in the future lalo na if there are updates related to administrative functions. Thank you!
